HON. CHARLES McCULLOCH

Writes a Gossipy Letter from the Nation's Capital.

To the Editor of THE SENTINEL:
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3, 1886.

No matter how much of a rover a person may be, I imagine there is always some place that he loves best, where the daily events that occur are of more interest to him than those that are sought in a foreign land, in the capital of the nation, or anywhere in the broad universe. Home affairs are our affairs, while public events may or may not be. Many are those around us at home, whom we scarcely speak to, and hardly seem to know; we would miss them if we did not see them daily on the streets, and for them we entertain a warm although a silent friendly feeling. When I am away from home, thoughts of Fort Wayne and the people who I know come continually to my mind, and much happiness is realized in fostering the love that I have for some, and the good will that I entertain for a great many. The delight that we experience by meeting a familiar face in a strange city is evidence enough that we all have more kindness in our hearts for those we know at home than we are apt to manifest when we are there.

Washington is growing rapidly, and becoming more of a city than its most ardent admirers ever supposed it would be. Wealthy families from all over the land are building fine residences here, and as the population increases, so to a considerable extent must other things keep pace. For years it contained only one good-sized theatre building, and it was seldom that the people had a chance to hear a good opera. Now two large opera houses invite the best artists, and the large and wealthy population assure them financial success. On Monday evening we listened to Auber's pleasing opera, "Fra Diavolo," rendered by Maj. Larson's Italian opera company, in which Mlle. Fohstrom, a delightful singer, made her debut. On Tuesday evening I was in my "seventh heaven," musically speaking, listening to Minnie Hank and Dotti, in Carmen, which with a full chorus and large orchestra is in my opinion one of the most musical of all operas. To-night we expect to hear La Favorita, in which three new singers will be introduced, two Italian gentlemen (with long names, and a signor in front) and Mme. Nordica (plainly Miss Norton), for she is an American, and because she was born in this country she is extremely pretty. No country can compare with America for the production of handsome women. The Mahomedans say that God gave two-thirds of all beauty to Eve, and right well have her descendants in America kept what He so freely gave.

The social world was completely snowed under yesterday, for there was more of the beautiful on the streets than has been seen in this city for many years. None of our storms of last winter were equal to it, as you can judge when I say that the snow on a level was over a foot deep.

Although Boreas blew a piping blast and snow was falling fast and thick, I called on Mrs. Lowry, on Capital Hill, and found her and Miss Lowry cozily situated in a suite of rooms in a new house. From their windows a fine view of the capital and the city below the hill is afforded. They have been here long enough to have made many acquaintances, and are very popular in society.

From there I went over to the senate and listened to General Logan's argument for the admission of Dakota, during which there was a spicy little battle of words between our Senator Harrison and Senator Butler, from South Carolina, the press reports of which show that Mr. Harrison was quite equal to Mr. Butler in repartee and state pride made me happy in feeling that our senator was equal to the occasion. Mr. Logan is a good talker. Although his speech was written and carefully prepared, he seldom referred to the manuscript, and I think his argument was good. How to admit Dakota with two republican senators is the great difficulty that stares our party in the face. At any rate we will be a long time in securing a majority in the senate, so perhaps a compromise will have to be made, and a democratic territory admitted into the sisterhood of states at the same time.

From the senate I went to the house, where bedlam generally reigns. A gentleman from the ice bound coasts of Maine was talking to empty seats and in the midst of great confusion. I immediately noticed how much harder it must be to fill the speaker's chair, than the vice president's. Important questions have to be decided promptly, yet carefully, and the routine work watched and dispatched in a parliamentary manner. I asked an old public man what sort of a speaker Mr. Carlisle made. "One of the best that ever filled the chair," was his reply. "The only fault is he is too honest. He cannot be used in any way for personal or party purposes. To be right and just to all is his only desire. The democratic party can always point to his record with pride." I have not seen the president or Secretary Manning yet. The death of Mrs. Bayard, following so closely the death of the eldest daughter, postponed a presidential reception, and took Mr. Manning out of the city for a couple of days. I think it is admitted by all that President Cleveland knew his friend Manning well, when he appointed him to fill this important place. He is spoken of, as big in body, big in brain, has been a newspaper man for years, (a great experience you will admit,) and the leader of his party in a great state. He knows enough to keep his mouth shut, (a great virtue,) to listen, but not talk back in an offensive manner. He pursues the even tenor of his way, executes the laws as they should be and manages the department as he thinks best. He knows a democrat from a republican and remembers that more democrats originally went into the army than republicans, so he finds a democratic soldier to fill the place that has long been filled by a soldier of the opposite party. I overheard yesterday, a conversation between my father and professor, David A. Wells, the ablest and most learned man upon practical economics, questions of tariff and general taxation, that this country has ever produced. His mind is a mine of knowledge, not only relating to the above mentioned topics, but the silver question, and our commercial relations with all nations. He has recently spent some time in Mexico and says it is a country far different from the ideas that would be formed of it by reading Prescott and many other writers. No manufacturing, either in wood or iron is done there and hides and leather are used where we would find wood and metals indispensable. The government is poor, the people poor, the soil on the highlands poor. The valleys are rich and support unnumbered herds of cattle, but there the climate is so unhealthy that only a native can live in it. The mines would yield bountifully, if they had machinery to work them. The soil could be improved by proper tillage and fruits in abundance raised by the proper kind of industry and intelligence. All this can only be accomplished in Mexico when the avenues of trade are opened with the United States. Mr. Wells has also spent much time in Nova Scotia, informing himself upon the fishery questions. He says that the people of Nova Scotia are a very religious people. They fish and pray, and combining the two employments, I judge they have a deuced hard time to make a living. No fishing by the natives is allowed on Sun'ay. A hard place it would be for some of our Fort Wayne friends to live in, who in this respect "remember not the Sabbath day to keep it holy." So do not our American fishermen, and it maketh the anger of the Nova Scotian wax hot to look out from his chapel window and see the American fisherman improving his time in this irreligious manner. Our fishermen think it cheaper to steal bait (meaning the small fish near shore) than to purchase them. This is a plain violation of law, for we are prohibited from fishing nearer than three miles from the shore. Frequent fights and altercations are the result, but they want our pork, beef, flour, etc., and free trade between the two countries will be the only way to maintain perfect peace. Mr. Wells, it is surmised, is here upon an invitation of the ways and means committee, and will doubtless render them great assistance in revising the tariff.

A person in Washington can make use of good ears, good eyes and a fair understanding; official position or plenty of money can assist him in obtaining an entrance into society, but a person in private life with moderate means can find much to enjoy.

They are Carefully Gathered and Choice in Style.

The Aurora city license ordinance is now a law, and saloon keepers will have to put up $100 additional license or shut up shop.

The Michigan City Dispatch prints a list of fifty things that are badly needed by that metropolis, the first of which is a new city jail.

County Commissioner Moorman, of Randolph county, has shipped a car load of cattle of his own raising, averaging 1,500 pounds a head.

Logansport has applied for the free letter delivery system and enumerators are counting the people there to see if that town deserves this feature of the federal postal service.

The Tippecanoe county Agricultural society has decided to solicit subscriptions for the county fair for 1886, and unless they meet with better success than in the last two years, will abandon the fair.

At Muncie the jury in the case of Rev. George Reber vs. Samuel Huggins, asking damages in $10,000 for malicious prosecution and false imprisonment, returned a verdict Saturday afternoon for the defense.

Judge C. R. Pollard, of Delphi, territorial justice of Montana, says he came home from Montana to make his defense against charges of unbecoming conduct preferred against him. He says he feels confident that the senate will confirm his nomination.

The burning of the Fisk block, at Valparaiso, on the night of Feb. 1, entailed a loss of $20,000. Valparaiso commandery, Knights Templar, occupying the third story, lost $8,000 in furniture and regalia. John Fitzwilliam's "Fair store" was a complete loss, as was the dress making establishment on the second floor.

Charley Chambers was sentenced to prison for two years, at Bloomington, Saturday. The crime for which Chambers was convicted was committed on the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad last April. The baggage car on the night train was entered, near Mitchell, by a masked burglar, who assaulted Express Messenger Davis and Baggage-man Webber, using both a club and a pistol. Davis' injuries resulted in making him a physical wreck, and for many days it was believed he could not live. Webber's injuries were not so serious. The robber rifled the express safe, but got only about $400.

The balance in the general fund of the state treasury is now reduced to $83,000, and the estimated receipts, up to the time of the May settlements, in addition to this, are about $50,000. This will not be sufficient to defray the state's expenses during the next three months, and the treasurer will be compelled to anticipate the revenues by drawing on county treasurers in advance. The enormous outlay incident to the erection of the new insane hospitals has largely contributed to the present financial strait, and an arrangement has been made by which it is agreed that the work shall proceed with the opening of spring, but shall be paid for in June and in January, 1887.

WHY ASPHYXIATION IS COMMON.

Every few days the newspapers contain reports of persons found smothered in hotel bed-rooms because they "blow out the gas." If the smothered man looks like a drummer, or other enlightened individual, the coroner's verdict is apt to hint darkly at suicide. The municipal authorities of Atlanta take another view of the matter. They have been advised that one-half the deaths from asphyxia are caused by hotel proprietors, and have made a law that economic landlords shall not turn off the gas from the meter at night. A large number of travelers leave the gas burning dimly when they retire; then the hotel man cuts off the gas. He turns it on again for early-rising travelers, and the others, if they sleep late, run a risk of death from suffocation. Travelers should turn the gas completely out before going to bed.

The following is the experience of a Baltimore butcher.—I have suffered with bad headaches for years and have tried many remedies without obtaining relief. I was advised to give Salvation Oil a trial and it has entirely cured me. Ed Baltz, Lafayette Market, Baltimore, Md.

A HOWLING MOB

Is Now Marching Through Lon-

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.
LONDON, Feb. 8.—Ten thousand men held a public meeting this morning, around the Nelson monument, under a call for the "starving mechanics of London." The socialistic element predominated and the police interfered.

The police arrested Burnes, a well-known socialistic leader, who after a fierce struggle, aided by the crowd, broke away from the police and returned to the pedestal, where they waved the red flag in triumph, made incendiary speeches, and read denunciatory resolutions demanding immediate relief for working men by the government. The police being reinforced re-arrested Burnes, and carried him off, the crowd hooting and pelting the police with flour, mud and garbage.

The mob began storming houses and the streets in that quarter were abandoned to the mob which, as these dispatches close, are howling defiance against the authorities and hurling stones at houses.

7 p. m.—A furious mob is now marching through St. James street and Piccadilly, on its way to Hyde Park to hold a meeting. The mob is cursing the authorities, attacking shops, sacking saloons, getting drunk and smashing windows. On its way to Hyde Park the front of the mob made an effort to enter the war office, but turned away when the sentinel presented his bayonet.

The police along the route were crushed out of the way by the rioters as so many men of straw and many officers were terribly whipped for their interference.

BAD WORK.

Strikers on a Raid of Murder
and Arson.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 8.—About 300 strikers from Leisenring marched, this morning, to the Henry Clay coke works, near Bradford, where a few men were at work. When the strikers appeared on the hill above the oven they began firing on the workmen. Several were injured and one man who was beaten by the strikers for refusing to quit work a day or two ago, returned the fire. He shot several times and hit one of the men, who fell and was carried off. This infuriated the strikers, who set upon William Soissan, foreman of the men, and gave him a severe beating and he was left lying on the ground unable to walk or defend himself.

The strikers then made an attack upon the Tipple house, upset the office stove, set the building on fire, and guarded it until it was consumed. They went to the Sterling works, where they injured two men. The mob then left for Scottsdale, where they are to meet 500 strikers and hold a mass-meeting this afternoon. The loss to Finck & Co. by the burning of the Tipple house was from $3,000 to $4,000.

The strikers propose to force all workmen to quit, and if they resist loss of life and property is anticipated. The mass meeting at Scottsdale to-day was largely attended and over $300 has been donated the strikers by the merchants of Scottsdale.

HER HUSBAND.

Maud Miller Will Not Forsake
Her Second Man.

[Special Correspondence.]
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Renewed interest has been developed in the two marriages of Joaquin Miller's daughter, from the fact that they bring to light a peculiar phase of the unsettled question as to what constitutes a marriage. Though she was married first in New York to Steele Mackaye's son by a Catholic priest, this church does not recognize the marriage, owing to the information discovered later that young Mackaye was unbaptized. Then, in the divorce proceedings which Mackaye has brought, Maud Miller, the present Mrs. McCormack, proposes to prove that according to the laws of the state of New York he has no claim on her as husband, having deserted her on the day of marriage, and therefore has no right to apply for a divorce. The case is a unique one, and will attract much attention. Loudon McCormack, to whom she was married in Chicago last month, has had a career almost as interesting as his wife. When a schoolboy in St. Louis, in the fall of '83, a number of its citizens had planned to turn the city over to the Confederates, and young McCormack was chosen as bearer of the treasonable documents to the rebel Gen. Hindman. He accomplished his mission successfully, and on his return home the stage he was in fell into the hands of a band of highwaymen, who, taking a fancy to him, carried him away with them, and to reconcile him, gave him about $200 of their booty. The following day the country was scourged for the robbers, who, being close pressed, dropped young McCormack, and he was captured. His captors put a rope around his neck and the other end over a tree limb, with the intention of hanging him, after extorting a confession from him. He asserted his innocence so strongly and told such a straightforward story that he was allowed to go. When he grew up he chose the stage as a profession, and six years ago was engaged by Abbey to support Clara Morris after her concluding his engagement with Abbey. His confidence in his own managerial ability prompted him to handle companies himself. His ventures became more and more unsuccessful, until his last company, in which Maud Miller was engaged, became stranded in Louisville. Himself and wife are now playing in New York, where he expects to retrieve his fortunes.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The sensation of the day here is the terrible revelations made in a special dispatch to the World from Millersburg, Dauphin Co., Pennsylvania. The circumstances are of the most startling nature and serves as a warning against religious mockery.

Samuel Motter, a vender of patent medicines, entered a hotel where a jovial crowd sat and dared them to imitate the Lord's supper. Beer and bread were at once set forth and the carousers bowed in mock humility and Motter went along distributing a bite and sup to each. Suddenly, when he was about half through, a strange noise was heard and, looking up, the men saw a sight that made their blood run cold. As near as the scared men could describe it, they declare that "it was an immense, ill-formed and foul beast, with great cloven feet, painted horns and eyes that flashed fire. With wild yells the men rushed into the open air and scattered in every direction. Finally all reached home except Mr. Motter, who was away for a long time and at last he arrived a maniac. He was put to bed and physicians summoned, but they could do nothing for him. He raved, howled and prayed, declaring that he had seen the evil one and that he was lost. His torture was terrible, but nothing could be done to relieve him and he died in the wildest agony. The death bed scene is said to have been full of horrors that can hardly be described.

A NEW MOTOR.

AN EXPERIMENTAL BOAT BUILT TO TEST ITS PROPELLING FORCE.

Mr. Secor's Electric Yacht Eureka, That He Expects Will Blow Its Way Through Water at an Unheard-Of Speed—Its Success Will Revolutionize Navigation.

(Special Correspondence.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—An invention that attracts considerable attention from every one interested in navigation is just now being tested here. It is in the nature of a novel method of propelling vessels by combining steam power with the explosive power of petroleum fired by electricity. The precise details of the invention are kept a close secret, as the whole scheme is still in the experimental stage, but your correspondent and artist was permitted to make a superficial examination of the apparatus, the rest being left to conjecture.

THE EUREKA.
The inventor of this new combination of power is John Secor. He has given much time and experiment to the study of the subject, and as a complete test of the capabilities of his invention has constructed a vessel of about 100 feet in length. The only difference between her appearance and ordinary steam craft is that she appears to have no visible means of propulsion. There is no wheel or paddle, it is true, but not far from the stern, on each side, under water, are two square pipes, from which it is expected gas will be forced against the water at a pressure exceeding 100 pounds to the square inch. The inventor claims that he can develop a continuous pressure of fifteen tons against the water from the mouth of each pipe. If this proves to be an act, the vessel will move through the water at an unheard-of speed, and without the jar and tremor that usually accompanies our present methods of propulsion.

Explosive engines of various kinds are being used successfully for many purposes now, but the method of increasing the force by exploding a compound in compressed air and releasing the tremendous pressure to do its work against the water is the novelty in Mr. Secor's invention. If successful, this principle can only be applied to navigation, though Gen. Thayer, of Philadelphia, expects to use some such idea in propelling his dirigible war balloons through the air. It is a question, though, whether the weight of the powerful machinery necessary can be supported in air. Mr. Secor's scheme could not well be used on land, as there is no convenient medium for his high-pressure gas to blow against as in water, except the air, and that would be impracticable.

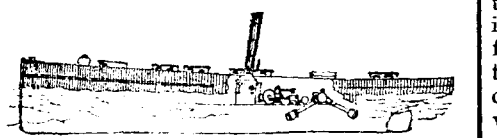

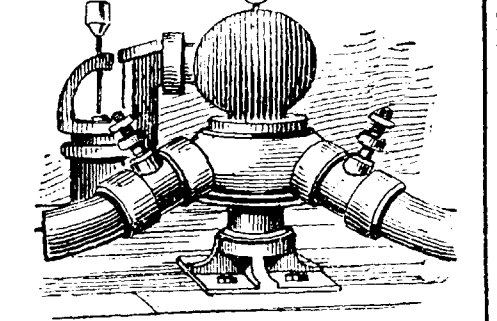

DIAGRAM OF LOCATION OF MACHINERY.
The accompanying diagram shows at a glance the position of the machinery. The small space it occupies is the first thing noticeable. The room taken up by machinery can be further economized, giving still more space for cargo. The machinery consists of a boiler, air compressor and generator. The principal of the invention is this: The steam engine drives a very powerful air compressor, and also a small dynamo, for generating electricity. The air compressor pumps air into a very powerful receptacle called the generator. Into this compressed air, at a pressure of 500 pounds to the square inch, is pumped a small jet of petroleum, which is immediately ignited by an electric spark communicated to the interior of the generator by wire from the dynamo. At the moment the explosion of the petroleum occurs a violent flash is seen and the tremendous pressure of gas and compressed air to escape in the pipes which have their outlet in the stern. The pressure of the gas and air against the water at the mouth of these tubes will, of course, not equal that in the generator at the moment of the explosion of the petroleum, but Mr. Secor claims that he can produce an explosion of the gas and air for eighty times a minute, if necessary. In this way, according to his figures, if one explosion will exert a pressure against the water equal to the weight of the vessel, the vessel will be brought against the water in one minute. If this proves possible, why, the rate of speed at which boats will shoot through the water is simply incredible.

THE GENERATOR.
The success of Mr. Secor's invention opens up a new field of possibilities. It is a revolution in every thing pertaining to commerce. The small amount of fuel required, together with the tremendous power developed, would solve the problem that is puzzling the architects of the great ironclads of the world, or at least remove one horn from their dilemma. The tremendous power required to propel them through the water necessitates an enormous supply of coal, and this again is hardly possible, owing to the tremendous weight of their armor and guns. Then, again, the speed vessels could attain would bring closer to us foreign ports and lands that are now high inaccessible. Besides, the cheapness of transportation by this method would turn attention anew to the rivers and canals and recapture from the railroads in many cases their present prestige. The whole scheme is at present at the stage the "Keely motor" has been for years. A few days will determine whether it is to be a failure or success. If the latter, then indeed has this first boat been appropriately named, and its owner can, with old Achilleus, rush about, shouting: "Eureka! Eureka! I have it! I have it!"

SCIENTIFIC TRUTH!

Regarding the Functions of an Important Organ, of Which the Public Knows but Little, Worthy Careful Consideration.

To the Editor of the Scientific American:
Will you permit us to make known to the public the facts we have learned during the past eight years, concerning disorders of the human kidneys and the organs which diseased kidneys so easily break down. You are conducting a scientific paper, and are unprejudiced except in favor of truth. It is needless to say, no medical journal of "Code" standing would admit these facts, for very obvious reasons.

H. H. WARNER & Co.,
Proprietors of "Warner's Safe Cure."

That we may emphasize and clearly explain the relation the kidneys sustain to the general health, and how much is dependent upon them, we propose, metaphorically speaking, to take one from the human body, place it in the washbowl before us and examine it for the public benefit.

You will imagine that we have before us a body shaped like a bean, smooth and glistening, about four inches in length, two in width and one in thickness. It ordinarily weighs in the adult male about five ounces, but is somewhat lighter in the female. A small organ? You say. But understand, the body of the average size man contains about ten quarts of blood, of which every drop passes through these filters or sieves, as they may be called, many times a day, as often as through the heart, making a complete revolution in three minutes. From the blood they separate the waste material, working away steadily, night and day, sleeping or waking, tireless as the heart itself, and fully of as much vital importance; removing impurities from six or five quarts every day, or about forty-nine barrels each day, or 9,125 hogheads a year! What a wonder that the kidneys can last any length of time under this prodigious strain, treated and neglected as they are!

We slice this delicate organ open lengthwise with our knife, and will roughly describe its interior.

We find it to be of a reddish brown color, soft and easily torn; filled with hundreds of little tubes, short and thread-like, starting from the arteries, ending in a little tub about midway from the outside opening into a cavity of considerable size, which is called the pelvis, or, roughly speaking, a sac, which is for the purpose of holding the water to undergo further purification before it passes down from here into the uterus, and so on to the outside of the body. These little tubes are the filters which do their work automatically, and right here is where the disease of the kidneys begins.

Doing the vast amount of work which they are obliged to, from the slightest irregularity in our habits, from cold, or from high living, from stimulants, or a thousand and one other causes which occur every day, they become somewhat weakened in their nerve force.

What is the result? Congestion or stoppage of the current of blood in the small blood vessels surrounding them, which become blocked; these delicate membranes become irritated; inflammation is set up, and pus is formed, which collects in the pelvis or sac; the tubes are at first partially, and soon are totally, unable to do their work. The pelvic sac goes on distending with this corruption, pressing upon the blood vessels. All this time, remember, the blood, which is entering the kidneys to be filtered, is passing through this terrible, disgusting pus, for it cannot take any other route. Stop and think of it for a moment. Do you realize the importance, nay the vital necessity, of having the kidneys in order? Can you expect, when they are diseased or obstructed, no matter how little, that you can have pure blood and escape disease? It would be just as reasonable to expect, if a pest-house were set across Broadway, and countless thousands were compelled to go through its pestilential doors, an escape from contagion and disease, as for one to expect the blood to escape pollution when constantly running through a diseased kidney.

Now, what is the result? Why, that the blood takes up and deposits this poisonous matter in every part of the body, in every muscle, tissue, flesh and bone, from your head to your feet. And whenever, from hereditary influence or otherwise, some part of the body is weaker than another, a countless train of diseases is established, consumption in weak lungs, dyspepsia where there is a delicate stomach, nervousness, insanity, paralysis or heart disease in those who have weak nerves.

The heart must soon feel the effects of the poison, as it requires pure blood to keep it in right action. It increases its stroke in number and force to compensate for the natural stimulus wanting, in its endeavor to crowd the blood to escape pollution when constantly running through a diseased kidney.

Unnatural as this forced labor is, the heart must soon falter, becoming weaker and weaker, until one day it suddenly stops and death from apparent "heart disease" is the verdict.

But the medical profession, learned and dignified, call these diseases by high-sounding names, treat them alone, and patients die, for the arteries are carrying slow death to the affected part, constantly adding fuel brought from these suppurating, pus-laden kidneys which here in our wash-bowl are very putrefaction itself, and which should have been cured first.

But this is not all the kidneys have to do; for you must remember that each adult takes about seven pounds of nourishment every twenty-four hours to supply the waste of the body which is constantly going on, a waste equal to the quantity taken. This, too, the kidneys have to separate from the blood with all other decomposing matter.

But you say, "my kidneys are all right. I have no pain in the back." Mistaken man! People die of kidney disease of so bad a character that the organs are rotten, and yet they have never there had a pain or an ache!

Why? Because the disease begins, as we have shown, in the interior of the kidney, where there are few nerves of feeling to convey the sensation of pain. Why this is so we may never know. When you consider their great work, the delicacy of their structure, the ease with which they are deranged, can you wonder at the ill-health of our men and women? Health and long life cannot be expected when so vital an organ is impaired. No wonder some writers say we are degenerating. Don't you see the great, the extreme importance of keeping this machinery in working order? Could the finest engine do, even a fractional part of this work, without the attention from the engineer? Don't you see how he, the physician, is hidden disease is? It is lurking about us constantly, without giving any indication of its presence.

The most skillful physicians cannot detect it at times, for the kidneys themselves cannot be examined by any means which we have at our command. Even an analysis of the water, chemically and microscopically, reveals nothing definite in many cases, even when the kidneys are fairly broken down.

Then look out for them, as disease, no matter where situated, to 93 per cent., is shown by after-death examinations, has its origin in the breaking down of these secreting tubes in the interior of the kidneys.

As you value health, as you desire long life free from sickness and suffering, give these organs some attention. Keep them in good condition and thus prevent (as is easily done) all disease.

Warner's Safe Cure, as it becomes year after year better known for its wonderful cures and its power over the kidneys, has done and is doing more to increase the average duration of life than all the physicians and medicines known. Warner's Safe Cure is a true specific, mild but certain, harmless, but energetic and agreeable to the taste.

Take it when sick as a cure, and never let a month go by if you need it, without taking a few bottles as a preventive, that the kidneys may be kept in proper order, the blood pure, that health and long life may be your blessing.

The city council of Logansport has refused to pay a claim of $2,300 to Judge Dykeman, for services rendered recently in compromising $148,000 worth of bonds with the Aetna Insurance company, of Hartford, Conn.

Rheumatism is primary caused by acidity of the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and thus cures the disease.

The grandfather of Mrs. Joseph Miller, of Andrews, died recently in South Carolina, leaving an estate worth probably about $300,000. There are only six heirs—three boys and three girls—now living.

In the Dear Old Days.
We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss of this blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balm will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

Fruit House Bulletin

Great Reduction in Prices for 1886.

Goods are so low now that it can hardly be expected that there will be any further decline, so that those laying in full supplies will not likely be disappointed.

Coffee Down 2c, Tea Down 10c, Sugars Down 1-2c, Syrups Down 10c, Turkish Prunes Down 1c.

THE CITY.

The water works trustees meet to-night.

Uncle Tom's Cabin at the Academy to-night.

The churches were all well attended yesterday.

The telegraphic news is very interesting and exciting to-day.

Charles Chester and Nettie Soucks have been licensed to wed.

Mrs. Michael Nelligan is very ill and her death is anticipated hourly.

Engineer Baily, a member of Sion S. Bass post, G. A. R. is very sick.

Delinquent tax property was offered for sale by the city and county officers to-day.

George Barter sues Sarah A. Barter for a decree of divorce. Randall & Vesey filed the complaint.

Mr. H. W. Mordhurst, the druggist, is entertaining his mother, now here on a visit from Logansport.

Justice Heister, of Portland, will call the old border Little River ditch in the superior court, March 1.

The members of the Allen County Gun were out shooting for a gold medal at the White range this afternoon.

Fred. Foster, son of Col. D. N. Foster, is almost well, and the scarlet fever card was taken from his home to-day.

Aloysius Schone, son of Henry Schone, who died of scarlet fever, was privately buried from the cathedral this afternoon.

Trustee Bullerman, of St. Joe township, held a successful institute last Saturday. Superintendent Fells was present.

Louis Base, of Madison street, is very ill with diphtheria. He is out of his mind and has to be watched as he threatens to kill all visitors.

Walter Shane and Etta Vaughn, Hermann Schrader and Anna Osterman, Charles Carey and Sarah E. Crawford have been licensed to marry.

Wm. Pompey, the negro who mashed a white woman, was fined $10 to-day, but the mayor suspended judgment providing Pompey would mend his ways.

The interest in the special services at the Berry street M. E. church is so great that they will be continued another week. Services to-night, to which all are invited.

Mrs. Ann Jergens, who was implicated in the Stumptown clothes theft, was arraigned before Judge O'Rourke this morning. The woman has children and the judge made her sentence ten hours in jail.

It is now thought to be a settled fact that Sam Jones will not come to Fort Wayne soon. Chicago is pleading hard for him and had a committee wait on him last week but Cincinnati would not let him go.

The bill to admit Dakota into the union of states having passed the senate, is now before the house. If it passes, the territorial court there will necessarily have to be reorganized, and this fact may endanger Frank Shutt's clerkship out there.

The Masonic Temple association gave County Treasurer Dalman and City Treasurer Berghoff delivery bonds for $819 county tax and $197 city tax. Their levy covers all furniture in the Temple, and while the tax lien takes precedence of all other claims, the house will in no way be disturbed by the transaction.

Mrs. Mary Madden, mother of John Madden, assistant at the county asylum, died yesterday at her home in Eel River township. Mrs. Madden was also a sister of Mrs. Beegan, of this city, and was a most estimable Christian lady, whose death is widely mourned. The funeral occurs to-morrow forenoon from her home in Eel River township.

Mr. Ed. Heath, trustee of Milan township, narrowly escaped death the other day. His horse took flight on the Ridge road and ran away. Mr. Heath was hurled from his buggy with great violence and was almost killed. Three of his ribs were broken and he was otherwise bruised. He is not dangerously hurt and will not be disabled long.

The bridge across Shawnee run on DeWald street, between Broadway and Fairfield avenue, is a dangerous structure. Dr. A. J. Ramsh drove over the span this morning and his horse leaped through an opening in the side of the bridge. The animal went headforemost into the stream and was badly hurt in the flight. The doctor leaped from his buggy and a lady with him was helped out, without injury. This passage way ought to be looked after.

The gospel meetings yesterday, at the Second Presbyterian church, were wonderfully interesting and impressive. The work seems to be deepening and widening every day. They will be continued during the week, every afternoon and evening. Rev. H. M. Paynter will speak at each of these services. Services this evening at 7:30. Bible-reading to-morrow afternoon at 2:30. Subject, "Working Formula for Christian Workers." You will be welcome to all these services.

A girl of Wm. Kittler, living on Erie street, is very ill.

Adam Neis, a foreman for L. O. Hull, is the papa of a sweet girl baby.

Miss Georgia Fleming has returned from a pleasant visit to friends at Terre Haute.

Harry Hanna leaves to-night for Chicago, where he will engage in the practice of law.

Police Officer Jack Tremmel is still on the sick list, but is mending rapidly and out of all danger.

The divorce suit of Emma Hyde vs. Charley Hyde was called before Judge Hensch this afternoon.

The sale of advance seats for "Shadows of a Great City" opened this morning, and the play will have a great patronage.

The members of Emanuel's, St. Paul's and Zion's Lutheran churches held their annual joint meeting on Sunday next at St. Paul's church.

Wm. Oetting, the grocer, has filed a schedule, and as the law gives him $600, his creditors hope to realize little from his $400 stock of groceries.

Joe Evans yesterday resigned as financial secretary of St. Bernard branch, Catholic Knights of America, and W. S. O'Rourke was appointed in his place.

"Mrs. Minnie Fox, of Fort Wayne, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Markley, returned home Monday evening," says the Wabash Times.

Captain Diehl will not stop the sparring match to-night, as a few local pugilists suggest. He, however, will not permit this slugging business in concert saloons.

The members of the Young People's society of Salem Reformed church will meet at the residence of Louis Fortreide, No. 212 East Wayne street, on Friday evening.

Mr. E. R. Morrison, representing the Standard Oil company, spent Sabbath with his family in this city, and left this morning for the west in the interest of his company.

The cottage meeting of the R. R. Y. M. C. A. will be held on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. G. F. Jarrett, 24 Brandriff street. Everybody cordially invited.

John J. Weaver, another soldier mail carrier resigns March 1, and will be superseded by M. E. Fitzgibbon," says the Lafayette Courier. Mr. Fitzgibbon is a Fort Wayne boy.

A sneak thief nipped a box from the United States express truck at the South depot Saturday night. The package was worth $250 and the police are now "firing" all people from the depots.

The back door of the Hamilton National bank was discovered open last night, by the private watchman and Officer John O'Connell. The peepers waded into the money vaults, but discovered no one.

The Frederick Inness concert company, including, beside Mr. Inness, Miss Grace Hiltz, soprano; Sig. de Brazzi, harpist, and Mr. Hyote, basso, has been concerting with success through Ohio and Indiana for a fortnight past.

"The Shadows of a Great City" will be seen at McVicker's next week, the theater from which it begins its prosperous career," says the Chicago Inter-Ocean. This melo-drama can be seen at the Temple on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The fact is now stated for the first time that W. H. Vanderbilt paid more than he needed to for the Nickel Plate, as it was offered to Jay Gould for $1,200,000 less than that the week before, and declined on the ground that the price was too high.

Her Majesty's Opera Company, under the management of Colonel Maple on, went west yesterday, via the Pittsburgh road, in a special train of seven sleeping cars. The trip was from Pittsburgh to Chicago, where the company opens at the Columbia theatre to-night.

Rev. W. H. McFarland, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, preached to a large congregation in the Presbyterian church at Warsaw, yesterday. At that house of worship Rev. Mr. Paynter will inaugurate a series of bible readings next week, unless he is again induced to continue his good work here.

"The Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad company is clearing eight acres between the railroad and skate at Oden, and will lay it out as a beautiful park this spring. They will also erect bath houses a little east of the dock and run the 'dummy' to Oden and back four trips a day during the season for the accommodation of bathers and pleasure seekers," says the Petoskey Record.

In speaking of the growth of Odd Fellowship in the state, Harry Francis says, in the Michigan City Dispatch: "Odd Fellowship spread from New Albany to the towns along the Ohio river—Madison, Evansville, Jeffersonville and Lawrenceburg. Thence it jumped over to the Wabash valley at Fort Wayne, traveling down that river to Logansport, Lafayette, Terre Haute and Vincennes. After this it spread rapidly over the state, and to-day there are nearly six hundred lodges and twenty-six thousand members in Indiana."

Capt. Henry McKinnie has returned from Pittsburg.

C. H. Aldrich has a new bright faced baby lawyer at his house.

Mr. Christian Tresselt to-day renewed his bond as notary public.

The "Uncle Tom" bloodhounds and St. Bernard dogs were about town yesterday.

C. F. Lape, master mechanic of the Wabash shops at Springfield, was in the city yesterday.

Next Sunday will be St. Valentine's day, and spiteful people will have a chance to get even with their enemies.

John Slater, after an absence of eight months from his fire in the Wabash shop, resumed work this morning. He was in the late strike.

Rev. Kennedy, a young man from the theological seminary of Chicago, preached two excellent sermons in the Third Presbyterian church yesterday.

Mr. L. R. Shewell's spectacular melo-drama, "The Shadows of a Great City," will be seen at the Temple opera house, two nights, beginning Wednesday.

D. B. Kehler, who recently managed the Avenue house news stand, will at once take charge of the Bickford furniture factory, on East Wayne street.

Hon. James H. Rice, Indiana's best state auditor, was at the Avenue house, yesterday. The colonel is a great favorite here and has hosts of friends everywhere.

The Bass foundry is so crowded with work that they are obliged to erect an addition to their already large building in order to have room to put more men to work.

Judge O'Rourke this morning sentenced James Cahill to three years in the prison north. The good time act will shorten his sentence six months if he behaves himself.

The indications for the lower lake region, as reported by the weather bureau at Washington to THE SENTINEL, are as follows: Fair, slightly warmer; winds generally southwesterly.

Manager Garwood has made arrangements with the proper authorities, for a liberal supply of water to be used in the pneumatic fountain scenes in the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" performance this week. The scenic effects are said to surpass anything ever given at the Academy.

Charles Brown, the fellow arrested for selling whisky about town, was sent to jail for drunkenness by Mayor Muhler. Charles Nolan insisted on staying about the south depot, and defied Deputy Marshal Limecooly to arrest him. It is unnecessary to say he was juggled and sent to jail.

A gold band bracelet, with a clasp fastening, was dropped on the street yesterday, between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock, somewhere between the Second Presbyterian church, on Berry street, and the corner of East Wayne and University streets. The finder will confer a favor by leaving the same at this office.

Assistant Superintendent Thomas, of the state insane asylum, denies that Louis Rhein, an insane patient, was maltreated at the hospital. Besides Rhein were exactly the clothes purchased for him here. His story seems to have originated in his visionary mind, and Deputy Sheriff Mungeon asks that the fellow's tale be corrected.

"Professor J. H. Smart, of Indiana, it is rumored, is about to be appointed United States commissioner of education in the place of General John Eaton, who has resigned to become president of Marietta college," says a Washington dispatch. Professor Smart was formerly superintendent of the Fort Wayne schools and his friends here, and THE SENTINEL, would be pleased to hear of his promotion.

Yesterday, being the commencement of the second year of Mr. H. W. Mordhurst's superintendency of Trinity Episcopal Sunday school, that gentleman was presented, by the teachers, with a handsome and costly prayer book and hymnal as a token of his efficiency and untiring zeal. The school has never been more prosperous and harmonious, and the grateful beneficiary deserves this generous recognition.

The many patrons of the Princess Saturday night witnessed a fine game of polo between the Mansfield and home teams. The contest was over-exciting from the start and was hotly contested, but the Buckeye boys proved too much for the Princess club and when time was called the score stood three to two in their favor. The Fort Wayne players feel justly proud in having won one out of the two games played with the Mansfield, as they are a crack club.

About two years ago, during the craze for melo-drama, Mr. Joseph Jefferson, in his home at Hoboken, N. J., laid out the plan for what he thought would make a good play. Mr. L. R. Shewell, like himself, an experienced actor, wrote the dialogue and from this was turned out "The Shadows of a Great City," one of the most effective emotional plays of recent years. The piece has been performed in every large city in the United States during the present season, and has thus far drawn the sum of $636,000 in the thirty weeks that it has been before the public. The company is managed by Mr. Jefferson's sons.

Joe Gorrell, of the Winchester Democrat, was in the city to-day.

George Graham, of Fort Wayne, is on trial for bigamy, at Springfield, Mo.

C. A. Arnold, of the Bluffton Chronicle, was in the city to-day and made us a pleasant call.

The sparring match between Hawksworth and Butts will take place at the Temple this evening.

Fort Wayne lodge No. 136, Brotherhood of Locomotive Brakemen, will hold their first annual ball at Arion hall on Monday evening, February 22.

John H. Bass' buggy horse ran away this morning at the corner of Lewis and Lafayette streets. He broke the buggy bolt, letting the shafts on his heels. No one was hurt. The horse was badly strained.

Long before the time for morning and evening services at the Baptist church yesterday, even standing room was not to be had. The meetings were of unusual interest and will be continued nightly this week.

Mr. Howell C. Rockhill and Councilman H. A. Read left for Louisville, Ky., Saturday morning, for the purpose of looking at a fine stallion there. From Louisville they will go to Paris, Ky., to attend the great sale of trotting horses at Col. R. G. Stone's farm to-morrow. Messrs. Will Fleming and Willis Bush left this morning for the latter place and will join Messrs. Rockhill and Read. They will probably bring back three or four extra fine bred horses and introduce here the best horse flesh ever looked on. Some $15,000 is to be invested by the Fort Wayne boys.

The Sængerbund Society.

The Sængerbund society celebrated the seventh anniversary of its formation last evening at their hall, on East Main street. Only the members and invited guests were present and the evening was passed in a very pleasant way. Music, singing and speeches were features, and at midnight Mrs. J. George Strodel invited the assembly to a magnificent feast prepared by her. The following officers were chosen by the Sængerbund yesterday afternoon: President, Frank Hake; recording secretary, John Koenig; financial secretary, Gottlieb Unger; treasurer, Gottlieb Haller, librarian, Adam Slagle.

Real Estate Transfers.

Olds Bros., real estate agents, room No. 8, Foster block, report the following recorded real estate transfers: Howell C. Rockhill to Michael Ryan, by warranty deed, lots 1 and 2, block 20, Rockhill's Heirs' addition, for $450. Jennie M. Bullard to Mary R. Bullard, by warranty deed, part of lot 9, McLacklan's addition, for $1,100. Levi Somers to Sydney A. Somers, by warranty deed, 20 acres in section 25, Pleasant township, for $1,000. Victor Pope to Wm. D. Bremer, by warranty deed, 40 acres in section 12, St. Joseph township, for $1,700.

Is there Anything Here for You?

The following is the list of letters remaining uncalled for in the Fort Wayne, Allen county, Ind., postoffice, for the week ending Feb. 8, 1886: Ardial, Minnie A. Maxfield, Addie Branson, Nathan Nickelson, Charity Bower, John Nichols, Wm. H. Bandy, Henry Phillips, Anna Reuser, Ora Robinson, Mrs. Belle Rathbun, A. M. Reusch, Otto Stevens, F. T. Sheridan, Archie Stone, F. T. Swain, Sam Stewart, Mrs. Anna Tyler, C. W. Ward, Robert Geo. Wells, Mary Whitaker, Mary Wyneken, L. Kause, F. C. Wheeler, Jonathan Lookey, Rose Edmonds, Girtle.

PACKAGE LIST.

East Bound Freight Shipments.

The shipments of grain, flour and provisions, from Chicago, to eastern through stations by the pool lines during the week ending Saturday, February 6, amounted to 33,170 tons, against 25,246 tons during the preceding week, an increase of 7,927 tons, and against 81,375 during the corresponding week of 1885 a decrease of 48,205 tons. WELLS COUNTY Democratic Primary Election Last Saturday.

Wells county does not take any stock in conventions, but does everything by primary elections. The democratic county primary was held last Saturday and everything passed off very quietly and a good ticket was put in the field. Following are the nominations made: For state senator—Homer L. Martin. For representative—Levi Mock. For county clerk—John H. Ormsby. For auditor—Charles M. Miller. For treasurer—John E. Sturgis. For recorder—John Baumgardner. For surveyor—Gabriel Markley. For coroner—Henry Thoma.

A GREAT JOCKEY FIGHT.

A Distinguished Newspaper Man Who Always Told the Truth When They Had Lost.

Colonel John Biddlerly was one of the best known newspaper men who ever threw out great castings of public opinion in Arkansas. There was only one trouble with the Colonel—his lack of money. At one time he ran a small daily paper in Hot Springs. He dressed with extreme care and handled a small gold-headed cane in an exquisite manner, but he did not keep himself unspotted from the immoral world. He was always polite to his printers. He had to be, for he was nearly always in their debt.

Hank Beasley, a well-known printer, thus relates his experience with the Colonel:

"I had just arrived in Hot Springs, and while walking along the street, I heard some one say, 'There comes Colonel Biddlerly.' I knew that he was the editor of one of the papers, and as I wanted work, I introduced myself to him.

"Why, how are you?' said he, giving my hand a shake that made me feel glad I had come to the Springs. 'I am delighted to see you.'

"I am glad to make your acquaintance, Colonel," I replied. 'I have often heard of you and have read many of your articles copied in other papers.'

"Yes."

"And I have longed to see you."

"Ah, ha! Oh, I am known everywhere. My articles are copied from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

"Yes, I know that. By the way, Colonel, I am a printer and I want work."

"My dear sir, you are the very man I am looking for. I need a printer this very minute. Come with me and I'll introduce you to my foreman."

"I gladly accompanied him, thankful that I was so fortunate. The foreman gave me work, and that night I wrote to my wife, telling her of my good luck and promising to send her some money within the next week. Saturday afternoon came. I noticed that the boys seemed anxious, and when one of them said that he hoped the Colonel would win, I was puzzled, but I did not ask him to explain. We quit work and the boys sat down to wait for the Colonel."

"He's late," said one. 'And it's not a good sign, either,' said the foreman. After a while, the Colonel, twirling his cane, stepped into the room and said:

"Boys, you've lost."

"The printers got up, without saying a word and went away. I needed money—I had to have money, so I followed the editor."

"Colonel, I am compelled to have some money this evening," said I.

"I am sorry," said he, 'but you have lost.'

"Lost?"

"Yes, the game went against you."

"I don't understand you, Colonel."

"Is it possible you don't understand? Ask the foreman to explain."

"I hunted up the foreman and was enlightened. Every Saturday the Colonel would take what money there was in the office, go to a faro room and play. If he won, the printers would get their money; if he lost, they wouldn't. Well, luck was against him that season, for although I worked for six weeks, I only received $2.30. I admit that his system was fascinating and inspired the printers with great interest in the game, still it was not business."—Arkansas Traveler.

DECLINE OF MOONSHINING.

A correspondent of the Charleston News and Courier says that, although moonshining is still carried on to some extent in the mountains in the northern section of South Carolina, illicit distillers now operate under increasing disadvantages, and the business will in a few years be abandoned altogether. There was a time when the moonshiners had the sympathy of many good people because of the inhuman treatment put upon them by the rag-tag that were employed to hunt them down. Better men have been put in service during late years, public sentiment has changed, and the better class of people—in fact, most of the citizens of the mountain country—are using their influence against the whiskey traffic.

GEN. LEW. WALLACE. He Kicks Up A Muzz With the Soldier Boys.

It seems to have been a good deal easier to fight the battles of the rebellion and establish the south back in the Union than it is to get the facts of those battles straight after the war is over. No blood, at least no distinguished blood, has been shed in this latter attempt, but no end of hard feeling has been engendered, and several great historic questions have been sprung, which no judge or jury of this or coming generations will decide satisfactorily.

That brilliant, versatile and brave man, Gen. Lewis Wallace, of Indiana, having settled the matter, has now come home to set his fellow countrymen by the ears by raising military questions of the kind named. Gen. Wallace declares that Halleck hated Grant so much that he would have permitted Washington to be taken when Grant was commander-in-chief, to vent his spite. Yea, he would even have suffered the sacred, mighty and irreplaceable persons of the presidential cabinet to fall into the hands of the enemy if thereby he could prove Grant an incapable general. Through the intervention of a divine providence, one of whose instruments seems to have been Gen. Wallace himself, however, this frightful calamity was averted. Our cabinet was saved. This was in President Lincoln's time, 1864.

But no thanks to Gen. Halleck that they were, Gen. Wallace says. Thereupon a whole menagerie of colonels, generals and sermons follow. Gen. Wallace, tooth and nail, and fall upon Gen. Wallace, tooth and nail, and say that Halleck was "no such person."

We have no call to dip into this great military matter further than to give our readers a picture of the brave Indian who has raised the row. He was born in that state in 1827, and resides in Crawfordville where he is at home. He is a lawyer, and was a boy soldier in the Mexican war. His courage no man doubts. He was made a major general of volunteers for gallantry at Fort Donelson. That was one of the acts about which a great question has been raised. In 1863 Wallace prevented the capture of Cincinnati by Kirby Smith. Afterward he commanded the Eighth army corps in the east. He was defeated by Early at the battle of Monocacy. After this he was removed from command a few days, but was reinstated. Gen. Boynton, one of his critics, asserts that it was Grant himself who removed him, in this either Boynton or the encyclopedias are mistaken. The latter declare the order of removal was given by Halleck and rescinded by Grant.

However these things may be, we care not, Gen. Wallace is a brave, capable soldier, and everybody knows it. As a lawyer, he was member of the court that tried Wilkes Booth. As minister to Turkey he was the trusted friend of the sultan. He has just cleared $30,000 in a commercial deal it is said. Now for him to be set down to literature, in "Ben Hur" he has given us one of the most splendid novels that ever was or ever will be written in America, and he can do it again. "Ben Hur, a Tale of the Christ" is a perfect story, a crystal without flaw. "The Far God" a Mexican romance, is scarce ly inferior.

Do it some more, Gen. Wallace. Let military spies and jea-ousies alone, and get thee to litera-ura. Go!

The German Emperor William and the imperial Princes pay the full tariff on all private and Government railways, whether it be for single tickets or for special trains, with the exception of the line between Cassel and Frankfurt. Prince Bismarck paid for all his railway tickets until 1871, when the Society of German Railway Administrations presented him with a saloon-carriage, in which he travels free on all lines belonging to the society, as well as on all Government railway lines.

The Power of Public Opinion.

A recent medical discovery was at first thought to be a potent medicine scheme but when it was found that it was purely vegetable and contained no mineral poisons or opiates, and yet that it promptly cured the most obstinate cases of coughs or lung trouble, boards of health and public men endorsed it and hospitals adopted it successfully in their treatment of wasting diseases. The discovery is Red Star Cough Cure and it is sold for 25 cents a bottle.

HON. CHARLES McCULLOCH
Writes a Gossipy Letter from the Nation's Capital.

To the Editor of THE SENTINEL:
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3, 1886.

No matter how much of a rover a person may be, I imagine there is always some place that he loves best, where the daily events that occur are of more interest to him than those that are sought in a foreign land, in the capital of the nation, or anywhere in the broad universe. Home affairs are our affairs, while public events may or may not be. Many are those around us at home, whom we scarcely speak to, and hardly seem to know; we would miss them if we did not see them daily on the streets, and for them we entertain a warm although a silent friendly feeling. When I am away from home, thoughts of Fort Wayne and the people who I know come continually to my mind, and much happiness is realized in fostering the love that I have for some, and the good will that I entertain for a great many. The delight that we experience by meeting a familiar face in a strange city is evidence enough that we all have more kindness in our hearts for those we know at home than we are apt to manifest when we are there.

Washington is growing rapidly, and becoming more of a city than its most ardent admirers ever supposed it would be. Wealthy families from all over the land are building fine residences here, and as the population increases, so to a considerable extent must other things keep pace. For years it contained only one good-sized theatre building, and it was seldom that the people had a chance to hear a good opera. Now two large opera houses invite the best artists, and the large and wealthy population assure them financial success. On Monday evening we listened to Anker's pleasing opera, "Fra Diavolo," rendered by Mul-lon's Italian opera company, in which Mlle. Robstrom, a delightful singer, made her debut. On Tuesday evening I was in my "seventh heaven," musically speaking, listening to Minnie Hauk and Dotti, in Carmen, which with a full chorus and large orchestra is in my opinion one of the most musical of all operas. To-night we expect to hear La Favorita, in which three new singers will be introduced, two Italian gentlemen (with long names, and a signor in front) and Mme. Nordica (plainly Miss Norton,) for she is an American, and because she was born in this country she is extremely pretty. No country can compare with America for the production of handsome women. The Mahomedans say that God gave two-thirds of all beauty to Eve, and right well have her descendants in America kept what He so freely gave.

The social world was completely snowed under yesterday, for there was more of the beautiful on the streets than has been seen in this city for many years. None of our storms of last winter were equal to it, as you can judge when I say that the snow on a level was over a foot deep.

Although Boreas blew a piping blast and snow was falling fast and thick, I called on Mrs. Lowry, on Capital Hill, and found her and Miss Lowry cozily situated in a suite of rooms in a new house. From their windows a fine view of the capital and the city below the hill is afforded. They have been here long enough to have made many acquaintances, and are very popular in society.

From there I went over to the senate and listened to General Logan's argument for the admission of Dakota, during which there was a spicy little battle of words between our Senator Harrison and Senator Butler, from South Carolina, the press reports of which show that Mr. Harrison was quite equal to Mr. Butler in repartee and state pride made me happy in feeling that our senator was equal to the occasion. Mr. Logan is a good talker. Although his speech was written and carefully prepared, he seldom referred to the manuscript, and I think his argument was good. How to admit Dakota with two republican senators is the great difficulty that stares our party in the face. At any rate we will be a long time in securing a majority in the senate, so perhaps a compromise will have to be made, and a democratic territory admitted into the sisterhood of states at the same time.

From the senate I went to the house, where bedlam generally reigns. A gentleman from the ice bound coasts of Maine was talking to empty seats and in the midst of great confusion. I immediately noticed how much harder it must be to fill the speaker's chair, than the vice president's. Important questions have to be decided promptly, yet carefully, and the routine work watched and dispatched in a parliamentary manner. I asked an old public man what sort of a speaker Mr. Carlisle made. "One of the best that ever filled the chair," was his reply. "The only fault is he is too honest. He cannot be used in any way for personal or party purposes. To be right and just to all is his only desire. The democratic party can always point to his record with pride." I have not seen the president or Secretary Manning yet. The death of Mrs. Bayard, following so closely the death of the eldest daughter, postponed a presidential reception, and took Mr. Manning out of the city for a couple of days. I think it is admitted by all that President Cleveland knew his friend Manning well, when he appointed him to fill this important place. He is spoken of, as big in body, big in brain, has been a newspaper man for years, (a great experience you will admit,) and the leader of his party in a great state. He knows enough to keep his mouth shut, (a great virtue,) to listen, but not talk back in an offensive manner. He pursues the even tenor of his way, executes the laws as they should be and manages the department as he thinks best. He knows a democrat from a republican and remembers that more democrats originally went into the army than republicans, so he finds a democratic soldier to fill the place that has long been filled by a soldier of the opposite party. I overheard yesterday, a conversation between my father and professor, David A. Wells, the ablest and most learned man upon practical economics, questions of tariff and general taxation, that this country has ever produced. His mind is a mine of knowledge, not only relating to the above mentioned topics, but the silver question, and our commercial relations with all nations. He has recently spent some time in Mexico and says it is a country far different from the ideas that would be formed of it by reading Prescott and many other writers. No manufacturing, either in wood or iron is done there and hides and leather are used where we would find wood and metals indispensable. The government is poor, the people poor, the soil on the highlands poor. The valleys are rich and support unnumbered herds of cattle, but there the climate is so unhealthy that only a native can live in it. The mines would yield bountifully, if they had machinery to work them. The soil could be improved by proper tillage and fruits in abundance raised by the proper kind of industry and intelligence. All this can only be accomplished in Mexico when the avenues of trade are opened with the United States. Mr. Wells has also spent much time in Nova Scotia, informing himself upon the fishery questions. He says that the people of Nova Scotia are a very religious people. They fish and pray, and combining the two employments, I judge they have a deuced hard time to make a living. No fishing by the natives is allowed on San'tay. A hard place it would be for some of my Fort Wayne friends to live in, who in this respect "remember not the Sabbath day to keep it holy." So do not our American fishermen, and it maketh the anger of the Nova Scotians was hot to look out from his chapel window and see the American fisherman improving his time in this irreligious manner. Our fishermen think it cheaper to steal bait (meaning the small fish near shore) than to purchase them. This is a plain violation of law, for we are prohibited from fishing nearer than three miles from the shore. Frequent fights and altercations are the result, but they want our pork, beef, flour, etc., and free trade between the two countries will be the only way to maintain perfect peace. Mr. Wells, it is surmised, is here upon an invitation of the ways and means committee, and will doubtless render them great assistance in revising the tariff.

A person in Washington can make use of good cars, good eyes and a fair understanding; official position or plenty of money can assist him in obtaining an entrance into society, but a person in private life with moderate means can find much to enjoy.

County Commissioner Moorman, of Randolph county, has shipped a car load of cattle of his own raising, averaging 1,500 pounds a head.

Logansport has applied for the free letter delivery system and enumerators are counting the people there to see if that town deserves this feature of the federal postal service.

The Tippecanoe county Agricultural society has decided to solicit subscriptions for the county fair for 1886, and unless they meet with better success than in the last two years, will abandon the fair.

At Muncie the jury in the case of Rev. George Reber vs. Samuel Juggins, asking damages in $10,000 for malicious prosecution and false imprisonment, returned a verdict Saturday afternoon for the defense.

Judge C. R. Pollard, of Delphi, territorial justice of Montana, says he came home from Montana to make his defense against charges of unbecoming conduct preferred against him. He says he feels confident that the senate will confirm his nomination.

The burning of the Esk block, at Valparaiso, on the night of Feb. 1, entailed a loss of $20,000. Valparaiso commandery, Knights Templar, occupying the third story, lost $8,000 in furniture and regalia. John Fitzwilliam's "Fair store" was a complete loss, as was the dress making establishment on the second floor.

Charley Chambers was sentenced to prison for two years, at Bloomington, Saturday. The crime for which Chambers was convicted was committed on the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad last April. The baggage car on the night train was entered, near Mitchell, by a masked burglar, who assaulted Express Messenger Davis and Baggage-man Webber, using both a club and a pistol. Davis' injuries resulted in making him a physical wreck, and for many days it was believed he could not live. Webber's injuries were not so serious. The robber rifled the express safe, but got only about $400.

The balance in the general fund of the state treasury is now reduced to $83,000, and the estimated receipts, up to the time of the May settlements, in addition to this, are about $50,000. This will not be sufficient to defray the state's expenses during the next three months, and the treasurer will be compelled to anticipate the revenues by drawing on county treasurers in advance. The enormous outlay incident to the erection of the new insane hospitals has largely contributed to the present financial strait, and an arrangement has been made by which it is agreed that the work shall proceed with the opening of spring, but shall be paid for in June and in January, 1887.

WHY ASPHYXIA IS COMMON.

Every few days the newspapers contain reports of persons found smothered in hotel bed-rooms because they "blow out the gas." If the smothered man looks like a drummer, or other enlightened individual, the Coroner's verdict is apt to hint darkly at suicide. The municipal authorities of Atlanta take another view of the matter. They have been advised that one-half the deaths from asphyxia are caused by hotel proprietors, and have made a law that economic landlords shall not turn off the gas from the meter at night. A large number of travelers leave the gas burning dimly when they retire; then the hotel man cuts off the gas. He turns it on again for early-rising travelers, and the others, if they sleep late, run a risk of death from asphyxiation. Travelers should turn the gas completely out before going to bed.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.
LONDON, Feb. 8.—Ten thousand men held a public meeting this morning, around the Nelson monument, under a call for the "starving mechanics of London." The socialistic element predominated and the police interfered.

The police arrested Burnes, a well-known socialistic leader, who after a fierce struggle, aided by the crowd, broke away from the police and returned to the pedestal, where they waved the red flag in triumph, made incendiary speeches, and read denunciatory resolutions demanding immediate relief for working men by the government. The police being reinforced re-arrested Burnes, and carried him off, the crowd hooting and pelting the police with flour, mud and garbage.

The mob began storming houses and the streets in that quarter were abandoned to the mob which, as these dispatches close, are howling defiance against the authorities and hurling stones at houses.

7 p. m.—A furious mob is now marching through St. James street and Piccadilly, on its way to Hyde Park to hold a meeting. The mob is cursing the authorities, attacking shops, seeking saloons, getting drunk and smashing windows. On its way to Hyde Park the front of the mob made an effort to enter the war office, but turned away when the sentinel presented his bayonet.

The police along the route were crushed out of the way by the rioters as so many men of straw and many officers were terribly whipped for their interference.

BAD WORK.

Strikers on a Raid of Murder
and Arson.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 8.—About 300 strikers from Leisegang marched this morning, to the Henry Clay coke works, near Bradford, where a few men were at work. When the strikers appeared on the hill above the oven they began firing on the workmen. Several were injured and one man who was beaten by the strikers for refusing to quit work a day or two ago, returned the fire. He shot several times and hit one of the men, who fell and was carried off. This infuriated the strikers, who set upon William Soisson, foreman of the men, and gave him a severe beating and he was left lying on the ground unable to walk or defend himself.

The strikers then made an attack upon the Tipton house, upst the office above, set the building on fire, and guarded it until it was consumed. They went to the Sterling works, where they injured two men. The mob then left for Scottsdale, where they are to meet 500 strikers, and hold a mass-meeting this afternoon. Two less to Finck & Co. by the burning of the Tipton house was from $3,000 to $1,000.

The strikers propose to force all workmen to quit, and if they resist loss of life and property is anticipated. The mass meeting at Scottsdale to-day was largely attended and over $300 has been donated the strikers by the merchants of Scottsdale.

HER HUSBAND.

Maud Miller Will Not Forsake
Her Second Man.

(Special Correspondence.)

New York, Feb. 8.—Renewed interest has been developed in the two marriages of Joaquin Miller's daughter, from the fact that they bring to light a peculiar phase of the unsettled question as to what constitutes a marriage. Though she was married first in New York to Steele Mackaye's son by a Catholic priest, this church does not recognize the marriage, owing to the information discovered later that young Mackaye was unbaptized. Then, in the divorce proceedings which Mackaye has brought, Maud Miller, the present Mrs. McCormack, proposes to prove that according to the laws of the state of New York he has no claim on her as husband, having deserted her on the day of marriage, and therefore has no right to sue for a divorce. The case is a unique one, and will attract much attention. Louisa McCormack, to whom she was married in Chicago last month, has had a career almost as interesting as his wife. When a schoolboy in St. Louis, in the fall of '63, a number of his citizens had planned to turn the city over to the Confederates, and young McCormack was chosen as bearer of the treasonable documents to the rebel Gen. Hindman. He accomplished his mission successfully, and on his return home the stage he was in fell into the hands of a band of highwaymen, who, taking a fancy to him, carried him away with them, and to reconcile him, gave him about $200 of their booty. The following day the country was scourged for the robbers, who, being close pressed, dropped young McCormack, and he was captured. His captors put a rope around his neck and the other end over a tree limb, with the intention of hanging him, after extorting a confession from him. He asserted his innocence so strongly and told such a straightforward story that he was allowed to go. When he grew up he chose the stage as a profession, and six years ago was engaged by Abbey to support Clara Morris. After concluding his engagement with Abbey, his confidence in his own managerial ability prompted him to handle companies himself. His venture became more and more unsuccessful, until his last company, in which Maud Miller was engaged, became stranded in Louisville. Himself and wife are now playing in New York, where he expects to retrieve his fortunes.

LOUISA MCCORMACK.

Maud Miller's father visited New York last week with the intention of taking her away from her husband to the log cabin, in which he lives on the outskirts of Washington. His wife to her resulted not only in a refusal to accompany him, but in the disclosure of a family skeleton, and the remark to a reporter that her "father possessed considerable of the plug ugly behind a Sunday school face."

The use of natural gas for fuel in the manufacture of iron and glass is giving to Pittsburgh a tremendous advantage over the other cities of the Union which are not blessed with the ability to avoid the payment of coal-bills. A careful comparison of the new facts with the old shows that not only is there an absolute saving in the cost of fuel, except that incurred by laying down the pipes for supply, but that the wear and tear is very much less. The difference in this respect is so great that the managers of one of the largest mills said recently they would rather use manufactured gas, if the natural flow gives out, than to go back to the use of coal. Not the least important property of the natural gas is its freedom from sulphur, which gives an admitted superiority to the iron that is manufactured by its aid. This fuel alone may yet render it necessary for manufacturers in other cities to resort to the use of coal gas in the production of iron that is desired to possess the qualities which distinguish the better grades from the poorer ones. This would involve the laying down of pipes at a great expense in addition to paying for the fuel in competition with those who get the latter for nothing. Without a change in the situation, to destroy at least a part of the inequality now existing, the manufacturers of Pittsburgh should be able to dictate terms to the trade elsewhere within the area in which the cost of transportation does not exceed the difference due to fuel. How wide that area is may perhaps be inferred from the figures which have recently been published by F. A. Bates, of Cleveland, who is connected with one of the largest establishments in the trade. The saving by the use of gas is given as equal to 68 cents per ton, including the lesser expense for repairs. The latter item is so small that the boilers of the firm have not required the outlay of a single dollar in the last two years and appear to be in as good condition now as they were at the beginning of that time.

An intimate friend of Cyrus W. Field says that Mr. Field has had all the wants of the Andra monument, and will not repair the damage done by the explosion under it a few months ago.

New York, Feb. 8.—The sensation of the day here is the terrible revelations made in a special dispatch to the World from Millersburg, Dauphin Co., Pennsylvania. The circumstances are of the most startling nature and serve as a warning against religious mockery.

Samuel Motter, a vender of patent medicines, entered a hotel where a jovial crowd sat and dared them to imitate the Lord's supper. Beer and bread were at once set forth and the carousers bowed in mock humility and Motter went along distributing a bite and sup to each. Suddenly, when he was about half through, a strange noise was heard and, looking up, the men saw a sight that made their blood run cold. As near as the scared men could describe it, they declare that "it was an immense, ill-formed and foul beast, with great cloven feet, painted horns and eyes that flashed fire. With wild yells the men rushed into the open air and scattered in every direction. Finally all reached home except Mr. Motter, who was away for a long time and at last he arrived a manne. He was put to bed and physicians summoned, but they could do nothing for him. He raved, howled and prayed, declaring that he had seen the evil one and that he was lost. His torture was terrible, but nothing could be done to relieve him and he died in the wildest agony. The death bed scene is said to have been full of horrors that can hardly be described.

"It does?" asked her mother.
"Yes, I saw the farmer pump into a can, and I looked in it and saw nothing but milk."—Puck.

FEEL INTO A BARREL OF SALT.

"Mama," said a friend of Uncle John's to her daughter, "what was the Sunday-school lesson to-day?"
"About Lot's wife, mamma."
"Well, what do you know about her?"
"Her husband told her not to look back, but she didn't mind him."
"And what happened to her?"
"Why, she fell into a barrel of salt."

ATROPHOPHOS two years ago. It made a thorough cure in my case. Mrs. ELLA SMITH, 61 N. Foster Street, Springfield, O.

From all over the country testimonials of the effect of ATROPHOPHOS in curing both rheumatism and neuralgia. No other remedy has been found to be a real cure for either of these terrible diseases. ATROPHOPHOS is not an experiment, it has been used for years and its value proved by thousands of persons over the United States. No remedy has ever been put on the market that has brought such universal relief to sufferers from rheumatism and neuralgia. ATROPHOPHOS is absolutely safe to take and will surely bring relief. If you doubt its merits send for samples of persons in your own State who have been cured by it.

Ask your druggist for ATROPHOPHOS. If you cannot get it from him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price, $1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

THE SAME HUMAN NATURE.

Many vain attempts are made to repeat the remarkable success of Henson's Capsule Plaster.
This splendid remedy is known, sold and used everywhere, and its prompt action and unparalleled curative powers have won for it honors of friends. Imitations have sprung up under various names, such as "Cip-stein," "Capstein," etc., intended to deceive the careless and unwary. These imitations possess none of the virtues of the genuine. Therefore we hope the people will assist us to prevent what are often their interests and ours.
Ask for Henson's Plaster, and examine what is given you, and make sure that the word
"Henson" is on the middle of the plaster.
Henson's Plaster is the only one that is on the face cloth. Any reputable dealer will show you this superior plaster without hesitation. If you cannot remember the name, Henson's Capsule Plaster, ask the proprietor of the pharmacy.

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY.
MONDAY, FEB. 8, 1896.

It is the purpose of the Indiana probibitionists to put state, congressional and county tickets in the field this year.

The house will consider the Fitz John Porter bill from the 11th to the 18th inst., and the statement of that department of the national legislature will have a chance to let their patriotism loose on a helpless people.

PRESIDENTS Washington, Monroe,
Jackson, Harrison, Pierce, Grant, and Hayes all served actively as military commanders and officers before serving as Presidents. Lincoln and Johnson both held military commissions during active operations, the one as Captain in an Indian war, and the other as Brigadier General in the Union army.

GEN. LEW WALLACE is preparing a statement in regard to Halleck's connection with the defense of Washington in 1864, and will give it to the public in a day or two. He has procured copies of many official dispatches that have never before been published, and he says the people will be astounded when they learn the true inwardness of that remarkable campaign.

THERE is some prospect that cocaine,
the valuable anesthetic, will not always be as costly a remedy and, therefore, as inaccessible to the people in general as heretofore. According to the Vienna Medical Journal, cocaine has been successfully procured, not from coca leaves, but in a synthetic way from chemicals by W. Merck, in Darmstadt, and others.

A girl, thirteen years old, who has grown only an inch in height since she was two years old, and has gained but little in weight, was before the Cancer (N. H.) Medical Society, at its annual meeting a few days ago. The girl weighs thirty-five pounds and is thirty-three inches high, has never been severely sick, and is unusually healthy.
Her mind seems to have stopped growing at the same time.

According to the provisions of the Dakota bill that territory is divided on the line of the forty-sixth parallel of lat-tude, provides for the admission of the southern portion as a state, under the title of Dakota, and the organization of the northern portion of the territory under the name of Lincoln, Indiana people have big land interests in Dakota, hence the warm support Messrs. Voorhees and Harrison gave the measure.

SENATOR LAWLEY'S militia bill, which has passed the senate, provides for an annual appropriation of $600,000 for the purpose of providing arms and ordnance stores, quartermaster's stores and camp equipment. No state shall receive its share of the appropriation unless its military force numbers at least one hundred men for each senator and representative to which it is entitled in congress.
It is doubtful if Indiana is at present entitled to the gift of this bill, but a little energy can build it up to the standard required by the law.

CONGRESSMAN REAGAN, of Texas, dresses in dark clothes, outdifferently as to style, and usually wears a blotch hat. He lives quietly, likes society and talks with every one. His face is very dark and is always smoothly shaven. He has black hair, though he is now nearly seventy, and his eye is bright and his step as firm as that of many of the younger members. His speeches in congress are devoid of much eloquence, save that which is found in his evident earnestness. He utters his words in guttural tones and makes but few gestures.

HON. JOHN E. LAMM will undoubtedly be confirmed as district attorney of Indiana, notwithstanding the spiteful attacks of the republican press of the state. It is rather severe on these journals to know that strong letters have been received by members of the judiciary committee of the senate from Judge Gresham, of the United States circuit court; Judge Woods, of the United States district court of Indianapolis;

Judge Mack, of the circuit court of Vigo county, and Judge Allen, of the superior court of the same county, all endorsing, in the warmest terms, the ability of Mr.
Lamm as a lawyer, his integrity of character, and the fidelity and efficiency with which he is discharging the duties as United States district attorney.

R. J. BURDETTE thus hits off Philadelphia: It was one of the pastor's best sermons, and he was describing heaven. It was a place of marvelous, matchless, transcendent beauty, he said. All the mansions were of red brick, with solid white shutters four inches thick, no cornice, brass doorknobs, and white marble steps, with angels continually scrubbing them through the countless ages of eternity.
"Eloquent preacher," said the stranger in the deacon's pew, at the close of the service. "Philadelphia man, ain't he?"
"Ah," said the deacon, "somebody told you."

WILLIAM W. ASTON, who has been added to the number of American novelists, is 40 years old. He is tall and slender, but muscular, and devoted to all kinds of athletic sports; he is a good boxer, an accomplished sword-man, a fine and fearless horseman.

THE FIRST KEEN TWINGE.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after every ex-posure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sas-saparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

DYSPEPSIA

Causes its victims to be miserable, hopeless, confused, and depressed in mind, very irritable, languid, and drowsy. It is a disease which does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy to throw off the causes and tone up the digestive organs till they perform their duties willingly. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven just the required remedy in hundreds of cases.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for dys-

THE CITY.

The water works trustees meet to-night.

Uncle Tom's Cabin at the Academy to-night.

The churches were all well attended yesterday.

The telegraphic news is very interesting and exciting to-day.

Charles Chester and Nettie Sonaka have been licensed to wed.

Mrs. Michael Nelligan is very ill and her death is anticipated hourly.

Engineer Bailey, a member of Sion S. Bass post, G. A. R. is very sick.

Delinquent tax property was offered for sale by the city and county officers to-day.

George Barter sues Sarah A. Barter for a decree of divorce. Randall & Vesey filed the complaint.

Mr. H. W. Mordhurst, the druggist, is entertaining his mother, now here on a visit from Logansport.

Judge Heiber, of Portland, will call the old buried Little River ditch in the superior court, March 1.

The members of the Allen County Gun were out shooting for a gold medal at the White range this afternoon.

Fred. Foster, son of Col. D. N. Foster, is almost well, and the scarlet fever card was taken from his home to-day.

Aloysius Schone, son of Henry Schone, who died of scarlet fever, was privately buried from the cathedral this afternoon.

Trustee Bullerman, of St. Joe township, held a successful institute last Saturday. Superintendent Felts was present.

Louis Base, of Madison street, is very ill with diphtheria. He is out of his mind and has to be watched as he threatens to kill all visitors.

Walter Shane and Etta Vaughn, Herman Schradler and Anna Osterman, Charles Carey and Sarah E. Crawford have been licensed to marry.

Wm. Pompey, the negro who mashed a white woman, was fined $10 to-day, but the mayor suspended judgment providing Pompey would mend his ways.

The interest in the special services at the Berry street M. E. church is so great that they will be continued another week. Services to-night, to which all are invited.

Mrs. Ann Jergens, who was implicated in the Stimpfulton clothes theft, was arraigned before Judge O'Rourke this morning. The woman has children and the judge made her sentence ten hours in jail.

It is now thought to be a settled fact that Sam Jones will not come to Fort Wayne soon. Chicago is pleading hard for him and had a committee wait on him last week but Cincinnati would not let him go.

The bill to admit Dakota into the union of states having passed the senate, is now before the house. If it passes, the territorial court there will necessarily have to be reorganized, and this fact may endanger Frank Shatt's clerkship out there.

The Masonic Temple association gave County Treasurer Dalman and City Treasurer Berghoff delivery bonds for $319 county tax and $197 city tax. Their levy covers all furniture in the Temple, and while the tax lien takes precedence of all other claims, the house will in no way be disturbed by the transaction.

Mrs. Mary Madden, mother of John Madden, died yesterday at her home in Bel River township. Mrs. Madden was also a sister of Mrs. Deegan, of this city, and was a most estimable Christian lady, whose death is widely mourned. The funeral occurs to-morrow forenoon from her home in Bel River township.

Mr. Ed. Heath, trustee of Milan township, narrowly escaped death the other day. His horse took flight on the Ridge road and ran away. Mr. Heath was hurled from his buggy with great violence and was almost killed. Three of his ribs were broken and he was otherwise bruised. He is not dangerously hurt and will not be disabled long.

The bridge across Shawnee run on DeWald street, between Broadway and Fairfield avenue, is a dangerous structure. Dr. A. J. Ranah drove over the span this morning and his horse leaped through an opening in the side of the bridge. The animal was hurled forward into the stream and was badly hurt in the flight. The doctor leaped from his buggy and a lady with him was helped out, without injury. This passage way ought to be looked after.

The gospel meetings yesterday, at the Second Presbyterian church, were wonderfully interesting and impressive. The work seems to be deepening and widening every day. They will be continued during the week, every afternoon and evening. Rev. H. M. Payntor will speak at each of these services. Services this evening at 7:30. Bibles reading to-morrow afternoon at 2:30. Subject, "Working Formula for Christian Workers." You will be welcome to all these services.

"The Shadows of a Great City" will be seen at McVicker's next week, the theater from which it began its prosperous career," says the Chicago Inter-Ocean. This melodrama can be seen at the Temple on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The fact is now stated for the first time that W. H. Vanderbilt paid more than he needed to for the Nickel Plate, as it was offered to Jay Gould for $1,200,000 less than that the week before, and declined on the ground that the price was too high.

The Majesty's Opera Company, under the management of Colonel Mapleou, went west yesterday, via the Pittsburg road, in a special train of seven sleeping cars. The trip was from Pittsburg to Chicago, where the company opens at the Columbia theatre to-night.

Rev. W. H. McFarland, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, preached to a large congregation in the Presbyterian church at Warsaw, yesterday. At that house of worship Rev. Mr. Payntor will inaugurate a series of bible readings next week, unless he is again induced to continue his good work here.

"The Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad company is clearing eight acres between the railroad and Akeat Oden, and will lay it out as a beautiful park this spring. They will also erect bath houses a little east of the dock and run the 'dummy' to Oden and back four trips a day during the season for the accommodation of bathers and pleasure seekers," says the Potoskey Record.

In speaking of the growth of Old Fellowship in the state, Harry Francis says, in the Michigan City Dispatch: "Old Fellowship spread from New Albany to the towns along the Ohio river—Madison, Evansville, Jeffersonville and Lawrenceburg. Thence it jumped over to the Wabash valley at Fort Wayne, traveling down that river to Logansport, Lafayette, Terre Haute and Vincennes. After this it spread rapidly over the state, and to-day there are nearly six hundred lodges and twenty-six thousand members in Indiana."

Yesterday, being the commencement of the second year of Mr. H. W. Mordhurst's superintendency of Trinity Episcopal Sunday school, that gentleman was presented, by the teachers, with a handsome and costly prayer book and hymnal as a token of his efficiency and untiring zeal. The school has never been more prosperous and harmonious, and the grateful beneficiary deserves this generous recognition.

The many patrons of the Princess Saturday night witnessed a fine game of polo between the Mansfield and home teams. The contest was over-exciting from the start and was hotly contested, but the Buckeye boys proved too much for the Princess club and when time was called the score stood three to two in their favor. The Fort Wayne players feel justly proud in having won one out of the two games played with the Mansfields, as they are a crack club.

About two years ago, during the craze for melodrama, Mr. Joseph Jefferson, in his home at Hoboken, N. J., laid out the plan for what he thought would make a good play. Mr. L. R. Shewell, like himself, an experienced actor, wrote the dialogue and from this was turned out "The Shadows of a Great City," one of the most effective emotional plays of recent years. The piece has been performed in every large city in the United States during the present season, and has thus far drawn the sum of $536,200 in the thirty weeks that it has been before the public. The company is managed by Mr. Jefferson's sons.

Long before the time for morning and evening services at the Baptist church yesterday, even standing room was not to be had. The meetings were of unusual interest and will be continued nightly this week.

Mr. Howell O. Rockhill and Counselman H. A. Read left for Louisville, Ky., Saturday morning, for the purpose of looking at a fine station there. From Louisville they will go to Paris, Ky., to attend the great sale of trotting horses at Col. R. O. Stone's farm to-morrow.

Messrs. Will Fleming and Willis Bash left this morning for the latter place and will join Messrs. Rockhill and Read. They will probably bring back three or four extra fine bred horses and introduce here the best horse flesh ever looked on. Some $15,000 is to be invested by the Fort Wayne boys.

The Sangerbund Society.

The Sangerbund society celebrated the seventh anniversary of its formation last evening at their hall, on East Main street. Only the members and invited guests were present and the evening was passed in a very pleasant way. Music, singing and speeches were features, and at midnight Mrs. J. George Strodel invited the assembly to a magnificent feast prepared by her. The following officers were chosen by the Sangerbund yesterday afternoon: President, Frank Maher; recording secretary, John Koenig; financial secretary, Gottlieb Unger; treasurer, Gottlieb Haller, librarian, Adam Slagie.

WELLS COUNTY

Democratic Primary Election

Last Saturday.

Wells county does not take any stock in conventions, but does everything by primary elections. The democratic county primary was held last Saturday and everything passed off very quietly and a good ticket was put in the field. Following are the nominations made:

For state senator—Homer L. Martin.

For representative—Levi Mock.

For county clerk—John H. Ormsby.

For auditor—Charles M. Miller.

For treasurer—John E. Sturgis.

For recorder—John Bamgardner.

For surveyor—Gabriel Markley.

For coroner—Henry Thomas.

A GREAT JOCKEY LIST.

A Distinguished Newspaper Man Who Always Told the Boys When They Had Lost.

Colonel John Biddlerly was one of the best known newspaper men who ever threw out great castings of public opinion in Arkansas. There was only one trouble with the Colonel—his lack of money. At one time he ran a small daily paper in Hot Springs. He dressed with extreme care and handled a small gold-headed cane in an exquisite manner, but he did not keep himself unspotted from the immoral world. He was always polite to his printers. He had to be, for he was nearly always in their debt.

Hank Beasley, a well-known printer, thus relates his experience with the Colonel: "I had just arrived in Hot Springs, and while walking along the street, I heard some one say, 'There comes Colonel Biddlerly.' I knew that he was the editor of one of the papers, and as I wanted work, I introduced myself to him.

"Why, how are you?" said he, giving my hand a shake that made me feel glad I had come to the Springs. 'I am delighted to see you.'

"I am glad to make your acquaintance, Colonel," I replied. 'I have often heard of you and have read many of your articles copied in other papers.'

"Yes."

"And I have longed to see you."

"Ah, ha! Oh, I am known everywhere. My articles are copied from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

"Yes, I know that. By the way, Colonel, I am a printer and I want work."

"My dear sir, you are the very man I am looking for. I need a printer this very minute. Come with me and I'll introduce you to my foreman."

"I gladly accompanied him, thankful that I was so fortunate. The foreman gave me work, and that night I wrote to my wife, telling her of my good luck and promising to send her some money within the next week. Saturday afternoon came. I noticed that the boys seemed anxious, and when one of them said that he hoped the Colonel would win, I was puzzled, but I did not ask him to explain. We quit work and the boys sat down to wait for the Colonel.

"He's late," said one. 'And it's not a good sign, either,' said the foreman. After a while, the Colonel, twirling his cane, stepped into the room and said: 'Boys, you've lost.'

"The printers got up, without saying a word and, went away. I needed money—I had to have money, so I followed the editor.

"Colonel, I am compelled to have some money this evening," I said.

"Lost!"

"Yes, the game went against you."

"I don't understand you, Colonel."

"Is it possible you don't understand? Ask the foreman to explain."

"I hunted up the foreman and was enlightened. Every Saturday the Colonel would take what money there was in the office, go to a faro room and play. If he won, the printers would get their money; if he lost, they wouldn't. Well, luck was against him that season, for although I worked for six weeks, I only received $2.30. I admit that his system was fascinating and inspired the printers with great interest in the game, still it was not business."—Arkansas Traveler.

DECLINE OF MOONSHINING.

A correspondent of the Charleston News and Courier says that, although moonshining is still carried on to some extent in the mountains in the northern section of South Carolina, illicit distillers now operate under increasing disadvantages, and the business will in a few years be abandoned altogether. There was a time when the moonshiners had the sympathy of many good people because of the inhuman treatment put upon them by the rag-tag that were employed to hunt them down. Better men have been put in service during late years, public sentiment has changed, and the better class of people—in fact, most of the citizens of the mountain country—are using their influence against the whisky traffic.

REPRESENTATIVE COLE, of Maryland, will push in Congress a bill appropriating $50,000 to build in Patterson Park, Baltimore, a monument to Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

GEN. LEW. WALLACE.

He Kicks Up A Fuss With the Soldier Boys.

It seems to have been a good deal easier to fight the battles of the rebellion and establish the south back in the Union than it is to get the facts of those battles straight after the war is over. No blood, at least no distinguished blood, has been shed in this latter attempt, but no end of hard feeling has been engendered, and several great historic questions have been sprung, which no judge or jury of this or coming generations will decide satisfactorily.

That brilliant, versatile and brave man, Gen. Lewis Wallace, of Indiana, having settled the Sultan, has now come home to settle his fellow countrymen by the ears by raising military questions of the kind named. Gen. Wallace declares that Halleck hated Grant so much that he would have permitted Washington to be taken when Grant was commander-in-chief, to vent his spite. Yes, he would even have suffered the sacred, mighty and irreplaceable persons of the presidential cabinet to fall into the hands of the enemy if thereby he could prove Grant an incapable general. Through the intervention of a divine providence, one of whose instruments seems to have been Gen. Wallace himself, however, this frightful calamity was averted. Our cabinet was saved. This was President Lincoln's line, 1864.

We have no call to dip into this great military matter further than to give our readers a picture of the brave Indian who has raised the row. He was born in that state in 1817, and resided in Crawfordsville when he is at home. He is a lawyer, and was a boy soldier in the Mexican war. His courage no man doubts. He was made a major general of volunteers for gallantry at Fort Donelson. That was one of the battles about which a great question has been raised. In 1863 Wallace prevented the capture of Cincinnati by Kirby Smith. Afterward he commanded the Eighth army corps in the east. He was defeated by Early at the battle of Monocacy. After this he was removed from command a few days, but was reinstated. Gen. Boynton, one of his critics, asserts that it was Grant himself who removed him. In this either Boynton or the encyclopedias are mistaken. The latter declares the order of removal was given by Halleck and rescinded by Grant.

However these things may be, we care not. Gen. Wallace is a brave, capable soldier, and everybody knows it. As a lawyer, he was member of the court that tried Wilkes Booth, as minister to Turkey he was the trusted friend of the sultan. He has just cleared $30,000 in a commercial deal, it is said. Now let him settle down to literature. In "Ben Hur" he has given us one of the most splendid novels that ever was or ever will be written in America, and he can do it again. "Ben Hur, a tale of the Christ," is a perfect story, a crystal without flaw. "The Pax God," a Mexican romance, is scarcely inferior.

Do it some more, Gen. Wallace. Let military spirit and genius alone, and get these to literature. Got

The German Emperor William and the Imperial Princess pay the full tariff on all private and Government railways, whether it be for single tickets or for special trains, with the exception of the line between Cassel and Frankfurt. Prince Bismarck paid for all his railway tickets until 1870, when the Society of German Railway Administrations presented him with a saloon-carriage, in which he travels free on all lines belonging to the society, as well as on all Government railway lines.

The Force of Public Opinion.
